About This Content

The GrooveMover is a way for you to instantly remix your beat. It's a MIDI effect that alters the arrangement of the notes in a bar.

How can you use it? Say, for example, you want to switch up the beat for the last bar of a four-bar loop. Just select all the region in that bar and press the GrooveMover arrows.

Based on the underlying color patterns, the entire beat will transform into something somewhat closely related to what you originally had; it's great for turnarounds or variations.

This is only one example, but it's useful in a variety of ways. As with all the features in Liquid Rhythm, the best way to learn is to play around with it, but we encourage you to check out our videos too!

The screenshot displays the Ableton Live software interface, specifically the Arranger view. The top bar shows the tempo at 120.0 BPM, the current time signature of 1.1.1, and the track length of 4.0.0. The interface is divided into several main sections:

- Library: Located on the left, it contains a list of instruments and kits. The 'Drum' kit is selected and highlighted in yellow.
- Note Edit: The central area shows a piano roll for the selected drum kit. It features eight tracks: 1. DnB Kick, 2. DnB Kick2, 3. DnB Sidestick, 4. DnB Snare, 5. DnB Snare2, 6. DnB Closed Hi-Hat, 7. DnB Pedal Hi-Hat, and 8. DnB Open Hi-Hat. Each track contains rhythmic patterns of notes and velocity markers.
- Beat Builder: On the right, it shows a 'Barform List' with a single barform pattern.
- Molecule Tools: At the bottom, this panel provides various tools for editing and generating drum patterns, including 'Surprise Mel', 'Randomizer', 'Move Notes', 'Accent Mod', and 'Beatform Palette'.
